OUR WORKPLACE

SGEU fosters a collaborative work environment rooted in excellence, providing a range of labour relations services to over 20, 000 members across Saskatchewan. Guided by a culture of professionalism, teamwork and accountability, we operate on the traditional territories of Treaty 4 (Regina) and Treaty 6 (Saskatoon and Prince Albert) and the homeland of the Métis nation. We are grateful for the opportunity to live and work on these lands and remain committed to advancing truth and reconciliation.

WHAT YOU'LL DO

SGEU's Communications and Education department provides a full suite of communications services to support SGEU, its committees, bargaining units, and members of SGEU. Reporting to the Director of Communications and Education, the Communications Officers' work is often performed in consultation with senior elected leaders, Labour Relations Officers, and the Training and Development Specialist. We are searching for a positive, proactive, dynamic communications professional to help us engage our members and build creative, evidence-based communications.

WHO YOU ARE

Candidates will have the following qualifications:

- Degree in journalism, social sciences, media and communications, arts, or humanities with a minimum of three (3) years' experience in the communications field. An equivalent combination of education and experience will be considered.
- Experience developing content and/or writing articles for print and web-based publications and advertisements.
- Significant experience designing communication products utilizing technical programs such as Adobe Creative Suite including Photoshop, In Design, Illustrator.
- Communications theory, concepts, and best practices.
- Knowledge and understanding of the labour movement, the public sector, and key public policy issues.
- Ability to effectively communicate and engage with stakeholders in a Union Environment.
- Work independently and as part of a team to plan and organize multiple projects while meeting deadlines.
- Be proactive and forward thinking to successfully problem solve.

Candidates will have the following primary duties and the knowledge, skills, and abilities to complete them:

- Design innovative creative concepts and oversee the development of a range of communications products tailored to targeted audiences, including interactive web-based materials, television, radio, billboard, digital and print ads and social media.
- Research, analyze and compile information and recommendations to committees and bargaining units to inform campaigns.
- Develop and implement campaigns and social marketing initiatives designed to influence public opinion on a range of social, political, and economic issues. This will involve research, analysis, long-range strategic planning, and knowledge of communications concepts.
- Write, edit, and prepare reports and publications.
- Managing media relations.
- Assist with the development of the organization's web-based communications, which includes writing for the web, maintaining and updating the website, and developing and implementing innovative on-line resources, such as e-petitions, videos, and social media campaigns.
- Provide planning support for conferences and educational sessions, including development of materials and other services.
